Invitation to EUROTOX 2009 in Dresden, September 13.-16

The EUROTOX Conference 2009 will be held in Dresden, Germany, from September 13th until September 16th 2009. Above all, your participation at the congress implies attending the biggest European toxicology event which is focussed on expertise, qualification, innovation and education. You may get in touch with experts, potential business partners and clients as well as the offspring. The EUROTOX Local Organizing Committee is currently preparing and finalizing an attractive scientific programme which covers all important and relevant topics in the field of toxicology. We have particularly spent efforts to implement the interests of toxicologists working in academia, industry and regulation. The program is available at the homepage of the conference: <http://www.eurotox2009.org>

The scientific programme covers all important and relevant topics in the field of toxicology. Approximately 900 abstracts for the scientific programme are collected and arranged in 30 invited session, 20 Poster sessions and 10 sessions of short oral presentation of papers selected from free submissions. The authors will make EUROTOX 2009 a unique event on qualification, innovation and education by their data from high quality research, scientific discussion and communication.

We are looking forward to welcome you at EUROTOX 2009 in Dresden. Please visit our homepage for further information on the full scientific programme.
